Pérez Art Museum Miami Announces Six New Communities for PAMM Inside|Out, Funded by Knight Foundation

Program to Kick off in Spring 2017

MIAMI – January 17, 2017 – This February, Pérez Art Museum Miami (PAMM) will kick off its second year of Inside|Out, a program funded by the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation which brings high-quality reproductions of art from the museum’s permanent collection to the community. PAMM issued a call to participants to host this year’s Inside|Out program and received 17 applications from communities all over Miami-Dade County. Six communities were chosen for this year’s round of installations that will kick off this spring in Biscayne Park, Opa-Locka and Overtown. Over the summer, the reproductions will rotate to Little Haiti, North Miami Beach and Surfside.

From Fernando Botero to Edouard Duval-Carrié, 50 artists from PAMM’s permanent collection will be featured in each round of Inside|Out nearly twice as many as last year. Exact locations of each reproduction will be featured on maps available at host locations and at pamm.org/insideout.

“Being Miami-Dade County’s museum, it’s important for us to engage the community in unique ways. Inside Out brings a breath of fresh art to everyday life and fosters spontaneous interactions with art in the community,” said PAMM Director Franklin Sirmans. “We’re honored to participate in this innovative program for the second year in a row and are excited to connect with each community in such an impactful way.”

“There’s something very powerful about seeing works of art in person. You become completely immersed. Inside Out brings that experience to people, directly in their communities. And an amazing thing happens: entire neighborhoods, entire communities, start to talk about art,” said Victoria Rogers, vice president for arts at Knight Foundation.

Miami is the fourth city to host Inside|Out, a program conceived by the Detroit Institute of Arts in 2010. It proved so successful in Detroit, the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation is providing $2 million over three years to expand Inside|Out to communities across the country, including Philadelphia and Akron, Ohio.

Spring Communities (February–April 2017)

Biscayne Park, a neighborhood known for its tree-lined medians and log cabin, will have 10 reproductions on view.

Opa-Locka, a historic city developed with the Arabian Nights theme, will feature 20 reproductions on view throughout the architectural Moorish city.

Overtown, one of Miami’s original neighborhoods, will showcase 20 reproductions throughout the vibrant African-American community.

Summer Communities (June–August 2017)

Little Haiti, the cultural heart for the Haitian Diaspora in Miami, will showcase 20 works throughout the neighborhood.

North Miami Beach, a city at the "crossroads of South Florida," will have 15 works on view throughout the area.

Surfside, a charming beach-side town, will feature 15 works throughout the town.

A calendar of related events and programs can be found at pamm.org/insideout. Residents are encouraged to share their Inside|Out experiences on social media with #PAMMInsideOut and #InsideOutUSA and follow PAMM for updates on Facebook (/perezartmuseummiami), Twitter (@pamm) and Instagram (@pamm).

Organization and Support

PAMM Inside|Out is organized by Pérez Art Museum Miami and is generously supported by Knight Foundation. Inside|Out is a national program that launched in 2010 at Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA), and has since expanded to Akron Art Museum, and Philadelphia Museum of Art.

About PAMM

Pérez Art Museum Miami (PAMM) promotes artistic expression and the exchange of ideas, advancing public knowledge and appreciation of art, architecture and design, and reflecting the diverse community of its pivotal geographic location at the crossroads of the Americas. A 32-year-old South Florida institution formerly known as Miami Art Museum (MAM), Pérez Art Museum Miami opened a new building, designed by world-renowned architects Herzog & de Meuron, in Downtown Miami's Museum Park on December 4, 2013. The facility is a state-of-the-art model for sustainable museum design and progressive programming and features 200,000 square feet of indoor and outdoor program space with flexible galleries; shaded outdoor verandas; a waterfront restaurant and bar; a museum shop; and an education center with a library, media lab, and classroom spaces.
