(MIAMI, FL — November 26, 2024) — Pérez Art Museum Miami (PAMM) is pleased to announce an exciting lineup of events, exhibitions, and programs for Miami Art Week 2024. Featuring panel discussions, artist-led tours, and lively parties, the museum's dynamic Art Week programs highlight the museum's dedication to Miami's diverse arts community and encourage art viewing as a means of genuine human connection.

During Art Week, visitors can view José Parlá: Homecoming, the artist's monumental exhibition celebrating his return to his hometown. The elaborate, two-part exhibition features a series of large-scale never-before-seen works and a site-specific mural painted throughout a weekend-long live-painting performance at the museum. Homecoming represents a radical departure from the traditional use of space in a museum, bringing Parlá's practice within the museum's walls, transforming and converting the gallery into the artist's studio. The exhibition not only represents a homecoming to Parlá's home of Miami but also marks a return to himself and his practice, as the works on view were created after recovering from a four-month coma due to a life-threatening case of COVID-19.

The museum will be open with special hours throughout the week for visitors to attend special programs and view the museum's current exhibitions, which include: Hurvin Anderson: Passenger Opportunity, a monumental painting drawing inspiration from Caribbean immigration stories; Calida Rawles: Away with the Tides, which delves into the particular experience of people in Miami's Overtown community; Xican-a.o.x. Body, the major exhibition showcasing Chicano artists who foreground the body as a site of political agency and imagination, artistic investigation, and alternative forms of community; Jason Seife: Coming to Fruition featuring site-specific works including a custom wallpaper, triptychs, and a large-scale canvas; Every Sound is a Shape of Time, a dynamic group exhibition of works from the museum's collection made between 1958 and 2020; and One Becomes Many, the museum's first presentation of works by Brazilian artists from its collection.

On Thursday, the museum will host PAMM Presents, its annual Art Week bash, featuring the global collective HOMEcomings™ curated by Grace Ladoja with an international lineup of Amaarae, DJ Tunez, and Dare Balogun, complemented with DJ sets by Miami's very own music makers SATURNSARII, Kumi and Lumin. The annual party celebrates PAMM as a collecting institution with an ongoing mission to promote artistic expression and the exchange of ideas to advance public knowledge and appreciation of art, architecture, and design, while representing and cherishing the unique diversity of Miami-Dade.

Additional Miami Art Week 2024 programming highlights include a dynamic conversation on the role of art criticism in the digital age, with New York Magazine's Jerry Saltz and Instagram icon Jerry Gogosian (Hilde Lynn Helphenstein); a meditative soundbath by Project For Empty Space and Commissioner, as part of BODY FREEDOM FOR EVERY(BODY); and a special tour of the museum led by Black Girls in Art Spaces (BGIAS).

Art & Insight: A Talk with Kate Capshaw, Sergei Grant, and Franklin Sirmans

12:30–1:30pm

Utilizing the genre of portrait painting—one of the oldest traditions of human picture making—Kate Capshaw creates artworks that explore the socioeconomics of the contemporary moment in America through the narrative of an individual.

Her previous work, Unaccompanied, is an ongoing series of portraits that give voice to those who are often voiceless, unhoused youth. For this new installation at PAMM, Capshaw has engaged in a months-long conversation with Sergei (Sirj) Grant, who was born in North Miami Beach and graduated from Carol City Senior High School in Miami Gardens, on the northern edge of Miami-Dade County. Grant, an entrepreneurial barber plying his trade all around Miami, also teaches and mentors young barbers. His story is one of challenge met with triumph and will be highlighted in this special exhibition.

Seating will be available on a first-come, first-served basis. The conversation will be live-streamed on YouTube Live and available post-program. Simultaneous interpretation into American Sign Language, Haitian Creole, and Spanish will be available. RSVP here.
